Brilliant Blue

Baked Terra Cotta

Classic Brown

Oxford White

The only thing missing on the sunset-colored pavers of a Spanish-styled abode is the clip-clop of a famous black horse and its enduringly handsome masked rider. Hail to the cavaliers that harbor amongst the bougainvillea and tiered fountains of the hacienda. Hemingway once said—"If you are lucky enough to have lived in Paris as a young man, then wherever you go for the rest of your life, it stays with you, for Paris is a moveable feast." Much like the gardens of Versailles, French-inspired gardens are a feast for the eyes with topiaries, lavender, and cypress as the table settings.

that marry the interior with the exterior. You get the picture.

There are certain historical feuds we'll never forget, such as the Hatfields and McCoys, or Al Capone and Bugs Moran. The Southwest style is no different. With beehive fireplaces, animal skin rugs, branding irons and spurs, it's hard to tell if you like the cowboys or the Indians. From the balcony of the Colonial estate, don't be surprised if you hear the call of Paul Revere in the night. It's also not uncommon for white-haired, pony-tailed men to arrive at your door by horse and buggy. The stately columns and stone walls may revolutionize your way of thinking. Remember your childhood, and the fluttering white curtains in the bedroom window on midsummer's evening. The chirping bird atop the windowbox was not only there for your enjoyment, but was welcoming Mary Poppins in on the breeze. The saltbox home is characteristic of charming memories and an occasionally prude but mesmerizing nanny. The "house in town" was the home of aristocrats during the social season of the year when they relocated from their country houses. The often wealthy Londoners enjoyed the terraced vistas of the townhouse. Now the vistas are yours to enjoy...at least while parliament is still in session. Heavy chimneys, half-timbering and dark wood paneling make every English style home seem like its gardens are automatically labeled "secret". There's always something intriguing, albeit epic to discover, such as wardrobes that open to wintry fantasy worlds. Warm and lovely days, lemonade, and picket fences are reminiscent of the country farmhouse. In the evenings, while you sip spirits on the lightly lit porch, you might hear the soft neigh of a horse. Elaborate ornamentation with a touch of whimsy describes the detailed bay windows, turrets, dormers, lattice, gazebos, and fancy wicker of the Victorian house. Nearly every sprawling, ranch-style home is one story. So who said those cowboys weren't thinkin' when they designed their homes on one level. It's hard to walk up stairs after a long day fixin' fences. Plus, why waste time when there's a perfectly good wagon wheel bench to sit on and a rusting tractor to look at.

What does a square, a baby's butt, and a windsurfing board have in common? They're the makeup for a modern design. Okay, maybe it would be better described as geometrical, smooth, and streamlined, characterized by expansive, unadorned windows that marry the interior with the exterior. You get the picture.

Using COLOR to Set the Mood in the Landscape

LandscapingNetwork
By: Renee' Brown

PINK
Innocent, Soothing
Coordinating colors:
pink ladies
black iron

These pink cushions bring a playful, feel-good vibe under a somewhat overwhelming patio cover. The bright fabric and black furniture draw the eye into the soothing seating area.

RED
Excitement, Romantic Coordinating colors:
red
grey timber wolf

The color of this wall makes a bold statement creating excitement and intrigue. At the same time, the privacy and seclusion it affords are perfect for a secluded, romantic space.

ORANGE
Energetic, Enthusiastic
Coordinating colors:
racing orange azores

The entry way to this residence is bright and inviting. It's welcoming feel gives visitors a sudden sense of energy and excitement for what lies ahead.

YELLOW
Happy, Optimistic
Coordinating colors:
amarillo
ravishing red

A bright and positive entry such as this can't help but brighten your day. The long, narrow corridor to the courtyard gets visitors excited and optimistic that they won't be let down once they get to the end.

GREEN
Refreshing, Relaxing
Coordinating colors:
woodland green
adagio

Natural and rejuvenating, the color green freshens a space. It adds just the right amount of color for this relaxing, mid-century retreat.

BLUE
Calming, Serene
Coordinating colors:
franklin lakes
antique rose

The calm, at-peace feeling of a stroll through this garden is achieved by planting design. The blue agave and grasses create a serene environment suitable for reflection and relaxation.

PURPLE
Dramatic, Motivating
Coordinating colors:
mystical grape
veranda view

The dramatic impact of an entry filled with purple salvia adds a lot of curb appeal. Contrasting with the bright green tones of the landscape, the effect is inspiring.

BROWN
Elegant, Stability
Coordinating colors:
saddle brown
myan gold

The solid, earthy appeal of brown in a landscape helps bring connection to the garden. The size and warmth in the varying tones of brown, gold, and blue in this fountain add a simple elegance to the soothing sound of water.

BLACK
Authority, Sophisticated Coordinating colors:
black iron
satchel

The black iron speaks volumes about what this patio is all about. It conjures up a powerful impression in a sophisticated yet fun entertaining area.

GRAY
Practical, Reliable
Coordinating colors:
smoke
burnt carmel

The practicality of simple gray tones need not stay muted. When accented by a warm color such as the carmel walls of this house, gray offers the reliable basis for nearly any design scheme.
